OBVIOUSLY countering the rising tide of authoritarianism in the world, especially in Southeast Asia, where democratic values, including human rights and basic freedoms are being curtailed, manipulated and even ignored, PH Vice President Leni Robredo lamented that many people across the globe today are associating “strong leadership with harsh behavior, brute force and punitive action.”

She said the future of a country is not in the hands of one leader alone, rather, it is the responsibility of everyone in society.

Speaking in a Leadership Congress in Manila, the Philippines second highest leader stressed that change lies in the hands of everyone.

“Everyone has a role; everyone has a contribution,” the Vice President added.

Robredo said that “strength in leadership flows from empathy and compassion and stressed that good leaders are inspiring leaders.”
