Mizumi has become Douglaston's latest dining attraction with foodies gushing over its vast array of top quality food.

Seafood and sushi lovers in and around New York are raving about the newly-opened Mizumi Sushi & Seafood Buffet in Northern Boulevard in Douglaston, N.Y.

Foodies and critics alike are gushing over the wide array of freshly made and elegantly presented food — from sushi and sashimi, to oysters, crabs, fish and ribs, to desserts of green tea cake and refreshing frozen yogurt — masterfully prepared by world-class executive chef Jeffrey Moon (who comes from the famous Manhattan restaurant Tao), in a relaxing ambiance enhanced by chic and sleek modern decors.

And the general verdict on the quality and taste of food?

Magnificent.

Since opening in December 2010, Mizumi (which means lake in Japanese) continues to gain a steady flow of customers, many of them enthralled Filipinos, who keep coming back with friends, co-workers and family members, according to manager and co-owner Ken Chang.

“Quality and selection are the key,” says Chan in a glowing feature on Mizumi by the Queens Chronicle.

The buffet — hot and cold food — seems endless: 75 sushi selections, 30 cold entrees and salads, and 50 hot dishes, including the fabulous crab soup, cream of broccoli, corn chowder and udon noodles.
